1. Updated application materials for the 2023-2025 funding cycle

We are pleased to share that application materials for the Global Fund's 2023-2025 funding cycle are now available on our website.

Application materials have gone through extensive internal and external consultations and are aligned with the new 2023-2028 Global Fund Strategy.

Additional resources including key annexes, information notes, the Modular Framework Handbook and frequently asked questions are also available to support funding request development. Additional guidance materials, such as the Applicant Handbook and a range of technical briefs will be published in the coming months.

All application materials will be available in a new section on the Global Fund website, consolidating important information and making it easier to find the right resources and understand how the funding cycle works.

To support applicants and partners, a series of webinars will take place on new materials and expectations for the next Global Fund funding cycle. The draft schedule is below.
